7 STEPS TO SUCCESS

CHRISTINE BLACKLEDGE CROWLE

You can discover a lot of good material about entrepreneurship and establishing a business these days, but you'll often have to sort through the wheat from the chaff to obtain the correct information.

The process of launching a business usually starts with an idea. Once you've decided that the concept is good enough to turn into a profitable business. Setting up multiple income streams businesses is not as hard as you think. I can show you what I have written in my book: a Six-Figure income doing what you love.

It is of paramount importance for me at this juncture to share the story of my life in earnest. Life is a place full of struggles. The trials, personal motivation and the ordeals I passed through to get to where I am today. Why am I sharing this? I am sharing this because I want you to know that you can have the life you desire by building multiple income streams as I did.

The Matter What Method Mentality

In reality, life is a pendulum that swings from side to side, and no one can predict when or how it will fall. Life is a disaster in and of itself.

To be honest, I learned early on that being successful in life requires endurance, God's grace, and determination. There is no secret to success other than hard work. Like my father does say, "There is no such word as you can't". I must admit it grated on my nerves a few times, but, this is what got me through every mountain and obstacle I was faced with in life. It enabled me to stay focused and remove every obstacle and get back on track with my life purpose.

Nottingham

My parents Marcus and Daphne were born in Jamaica. Dad was one of 20 brothers; he was able to get a good qualification as a welder. Mum was stunning and a beautiful woman, who lost her father at a young age.

My Grandma, Eunice, was a strong businesswoman, she was a determined hardworking woman who was dedicated to the wellbeing of everyone. She had her own catering business and café in Jamaica. Granny Eunice did multiple income streams, doing business. She was really committed to her business. At a point, dad, grandma and mum decided to move to the UK, as part of the Windrush generation.

I grew up on a council estate in Nottingham, Hyson Green. My twin brother Christopher, older brother Michael, Sister Sylvia, Jenifer, Mum and Dad, all lived in this small 3-bedroom maisonette. I loved living there because in my eyes we were the perfect family. Relatives would come visiting and we would also go visiting.

Broadway - New York Bright Lights

At 15, my family and I moved to New York. I was with my father and I said Dad, I am going to be a millionaire, believing and trusting in the words my father told me. I wanted to be comfortable and upright in business so I was dedicated shattered when I Married at age 19 to an abusive husband.

I was in a Domestic Abuse Relationship. I worked for a law firm in New York, wanted to be a lawyer but my husband was not happy about me going to work in Manhattan, so every day I had to be careful. It was more like my world and the purpose of becoming a successful business mogul wasn't achievable.

The Awakening

I saw my world crumbling, and it seemed as though nothing was coming through. At 19, I was living in the fear of my husband, I had no direction on how to go but I knew I had to move away but not sure of where to go so he could not find me. I managed to kick him out after a large fight where he was holding me over the top floor balcony threatening to push me. I did not know at the time that he was selling drugs, however, I knew he drank heavily.

He came out of the bathroom angry, with me on the bed, he rushed over to me and jumped up, standing on the bed with the broom, I was able to defend myself for the first time ever against him as I managed to kick him out, with a broomstick in the middle of the night. I had to move fast, so I decided to make a move back to the UK where I was born.

I told my family everything I was passing through. Yes, they were upset because I kept it a secret. He was hitting me and I was ashamed. They pleaded for me to stay saying they will protect me, but I did not want to burden them with my marital problems. So I wrote a letter to my husband you know the one" By the time you get this letter" I Packed my bags and went to homebound in England at age 20.

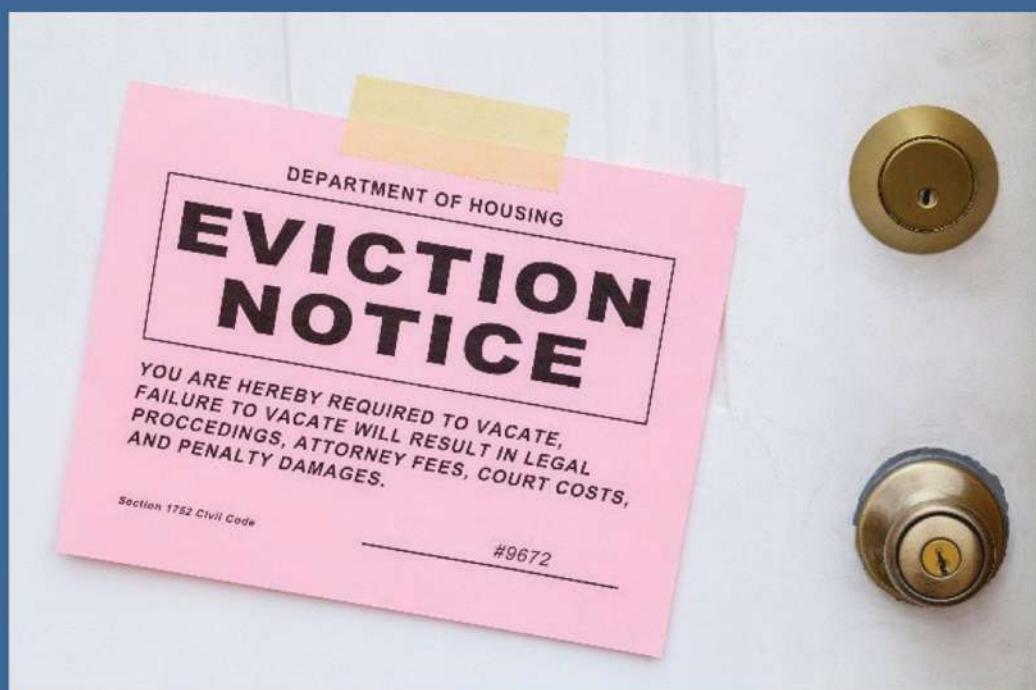

Freedom

Life was great, I was free again. Quite frankly, we have heard the almost banal and clichéd statement that – “as our faces are different, so are our challenges, desires, and aspirations”. Having spent more time with my grandma, I could say I got motivated and encouraged by her business skill. I was so eager and determined to be successful in life. At least, I could be whom I was meant to be without being shouted out or hit for wearing makeup and other things. I got a job and worked hard. To cut a long story short, I got pregnant at 23, had 3 jobs to help pay my way in my flat in Nottingham. I worked in a salt factory, in Derbyshire, it was difficult for me because I had to pack salt into boxes and lift them on a conveyor belt.

This was making staff feel uncomfortable watching me do this. So they took over and the company, could not give me anything else to do. I was there until I was 8 months pregnant because I was not aware of any benefits I could claim.

I remember coming home to my flat to see I got the order of eviction with a date to leave.

I was evicted from my flat, I went into a Mother and baby unit. At this point, I knew I need to act fast. I still remained focused not minding the challenges before me. I'll say to myself and look straight into my son's eye and promise him I was going to give him a good life.

I did not realise I could have claimed benefits to pay for the flat I was living in. So there we were, sharing a room with 3 other Moms who were in the same position as I was. Feeling alone, isolated and ashamed of myself, I felt I was at fault with the situation.

My son's life had only begun, and yet it should have been a joyful time. I was more focused on what was going to happen. I never wanted to return home to my parents. I knew no matter the challenge I was bent and ready to face it squarely and to become successful in life. I looked my son in the eye with tears running down my face and said "I am going to be a millionaire and give you the life you deserve, the clothes you want, you shall want for nothing, I promised"

It took 6 -7 weeks to get out of there, the council gave us a house to live in when he was 3 months old. Blaring horns could not stop me from dreaming, no, I dreamt every day until my dreams materialised.

Now that our immediate needs were covered, I started to plan about our future, how to make it, maybe to say, I understood the rudiments of how to start, but the financial capacity wasn't just there. I was running out of money until a certain day I went to ask for extra money. It was

The staff member in the dole office was very harsh, rude and not sympathetic to my situation. I remember, when I got out crying with Michael in my arms, again, I said to Michael my son in the pushchair "I am going to be a millionaire". My son was my world and everything. He was one of my driving forces. However, regardless of our sundry careers, professions or work, what ultimately defines us is the quality and strength of our attitudes of mind. Everything started to get better and on the 14th of February, 1989, I met a wonderful man David, soon to be my husband of 28 years who is now passed. I started writing a plan of how I can do different businesses. First, I had to do research on what I could sell to double or triple my money. I bought a workbook of about 10 steps to becoming a millionaire. This just talked about different ways to double, triple method, not actually what products, or services to use. David also was in alignment with me about this and things started to improve.

Gradually, things began to change, I already started my own business and I was able to change my status from a 2 bed for a bigger 3 bedroom house in Strelley, Nottingham. I Went on to get married to David in 1995 who really helped and assisted me in achieving my dreams.

In life, it is harder to climb than to descend. In 1994, I set up my own care home on a council estate. "People said it was impossible, but I had a vision". I never allowed what people said affect me. My determination for greatness led me to success making every impossibility possible.

In 1994 this house above made a turnover of £76,000 a year. I then turned my own house into a care home and moved out.

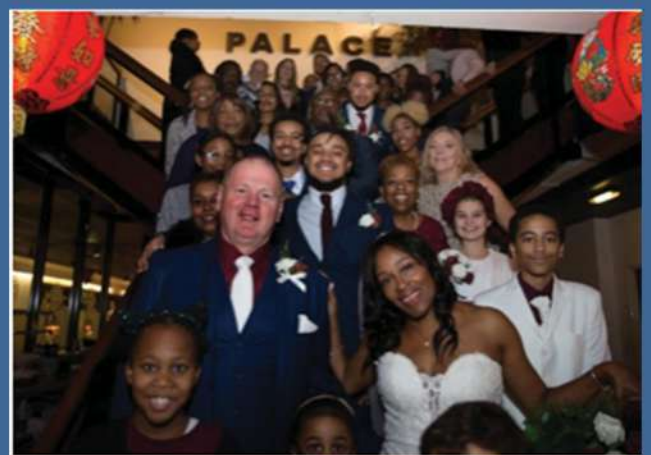

I continued on to do other types of care homes, Children's home, mother and baby unit. Supported living homes. I was selling items drop-shipping. Moved from Nottingham to Sussex with the family in 2000 into our dream home. Setup a home-care agency and recruitment agency.

Continued to own and run multiple healthcare businesses. Then I started selling online doing affiliate marketing, then selling on amazon and earning £15,000 a week. I also set up and owned a recruitment agency in the USA. Then I started to create information products to sell online, coaching clients, running workshops around UK and USA and doing boot camp training face to face and online.

My husband David of 28 years passed away from cancer, the same day as my mother on February 4th, 2017. I was lost, in shock and took time out for a short while. To be honest 2016 – 2017 was a blur to me because that was when Dave became ill. I continued with the business products and ser-more online training and grow from strength to strength.

I found love again and remarried in late 2018.

Pandemic Hit

I was already doing online events from late 2018 and into 2019. The global pandemic really contributed to my web class and boot camps continued and increased. I wanted to become global and I knew I needed to act fast so I did.

I was able to set up my own franchise in 2020 for coaches in our brand Matriarch. I then moved to Cyprus to set up a company as a private employment agency and have now got the license to be able to run a recruitment agency. In Cyprus, you must attend training classes with the government on employment law etc, then take an exam to pass the criteria of having a recruitment office.

Cyprus Company Logo. We are now a licensed employment agency. The Cyprus company will be emulating the UK company. We aim to open offices in the USA and Africa in 2022. So, this is a bit of my journey.

Multiple Income Stream Technologies

From grass to grace, my life journey was full of struggle. But, like most successful people of the world, every man has a story to tell of how they made it through in life. I am a success story and I was able to create a plan and start listing what I wanted to sell. I started selling items like bar stools, washing machines, fridge freezers, pushchairs etc.

Now back then, we did not have the internet. So imagine what can be achieved online selling different items, business setups, different types of care home, home care business, recruitment agency, business services etc. This will all make multiple income streams to enable you to create a 7-figure business.
